The funds of the company are sufficient to continue operating, it said. The move, based on the company's assessment, will provide its customers with uninterrupted access to its service. Faced with a year-onyear decline of 37 per cent in its sales volume to $\in 3.4$ billion (\$4.5 billion) in 2018, Volkswagen Retail, which became part of Porsche after the German governmentbacked conglomerate took a 50.01% stake in the holding company in September, said on Wednesday that it was forcing some depots to temporarily shut. The unit, which claimed to have 19 outlets and a network of 180,000 employees by last year, had around 1,250 employees on board as of the end of the first quarter. "We have recently made the decision to temporarily close a number of our sites in some of the countries we operate in due to the slowdown in sales," Volkswagen Retail said on Wednesday. The company, which sells pre-owned cars from several brands such as Skoda, Seat and Ducati, had hoped to reach the landmark of $\in 10$ billion in revenues from the sale of second-hand vehicles in 2018. According to Volkswagen Retail's report, the company, which also runs the Volkswagen and SEAT stores in Germany, sold 4.6 million vehicles in 2018, down from 4.7 million a year earlier."I understand one of the reasons why the United States is so great: It is not afraid of asserting itself. It is not afraid of being strong. And that is why we are determined
