“As a player myself, I understand how important it is for me to give players the best possible experience at matches,” said Nike founder and chairman Phil Knight. “We have a unique opportunity with the incredible feedback we’re collecting from all the real-life players who are being used for our Research Lab and the feedback we’re providing to the development of FIFA 22.” All players have been chosen with the assistance of Major League Soccer, the National Hockey League, the National Basketball Association, and the English Premier League. FIFA tips, tactics and lineups were also used to choose the players. A global panel of players was used to review the game and the design and development of the game, and the top-performing 11 players from this panel were chosen to be included in the gameplay. Each of the 11 players is available in this year’s FIFA Ultimate Team™, and can be purchased individually for real-world money or alongside these 11 other champions from the Research Lab. The digital superstars Two key high-profile players have been added to FIFA Ultimate Team this year, and will start from the get-go in FIFA 22. “I’m proud to have the opportunity to create the latest iteration of the FIFA franchise and improve the overall player experience for millions of fans around the world,” said Oliver Chang, Creative Director on FIFA 22. “The introduction of HyperMotion Technology on top of many other enhancements we’ve made to gameplay and presentation, FIFA 22 will feature some of the most authentic and interactive football gameplay ever.” FIFA 22 will launch on the Xbox One, PlayStation 4 and PC on September 27 and will be released worldwide. The Standard Edition will be available for $59.99, which includes digital, physical and in-game content. Additionally, FIFA Ultimate Team players will receive significant discounts for the first week. The Ultimate Edition will be available for $79.99, which will include everything in the Standard Edition as well as all the contents in the Deluxe Edition. Players with an Ultimate Edition of the game will receive all the contents from the Deluxe Edition as well. The most in-depth and authentic football experience is now yours Easier and more intuitive control, improved ball physics and accurate ball and player movements make FIFA 22 the most in-depth and authentic football experience. On FIFA Day, we’re asking you to help us raise awareness for the UN World Health Organization’s (WHO) #DonateLife campaign, a global movement to save lives by making more people aware of the effects of suicide. I’m a FIFA Ultimate team fan and as sad as I was when they discontinued EA championship mode, I was really happy to see they brought back Career mode. I’m not a huge soccer fan and haven’t really started to get into FIFA but I was happy to give the demo a try and I’m a big fan of career mode. I’m not sure what leagues are being played in but I can see this game being great for fans of a lot of different games. I hope a career mode comes to Battle Creek

FIFA is back, and the first thing you’ll notice is the revolutionary new control scheme that, by simply snapping your fingers, delivers unparalleled ball control. FIFA is a true test of your skills, and no game has ever been as fast or furious – except for this year’s FIFA, that is. Every new team you choose to play will use a new playmaker system, meaning that your brain can concentrate on one player at a time. The match engine has been completely reworked to improve ball physics and dribbling and make games more exciting, competitive and unpredictable. The ball, for example, now runs off the ground – enabling ‘physics-driven’ shots and much more. The on-pitch experience has been improved to add flexibility, depth and skill-combinations. The biggest innovation however, will be the addition of ‘impact’ systems. These introduce a whole new dimension to the experience of matches and the way your players interact with the ball, their opponents and the environment on the pitch. Powered by Football FIFA 20 added an all-new player broadcast option, with more than 40 new broadcaster play-by-plays, and voiceovers in all languages. FIFA 22 brings in 15 all-new play-by-plays and veteran commentators with more than 1000 new lines recorded in 52 languages. Player broadcast is available in 15 languages including English, Spanish, Brazilian, German, French, and more, as well as in new languages like Hindi and Russian, which was added for the FIFA World Cup Russia 2018™. Plus, the renowned StarLadder stream will have 700 different broadcasters speaking in more than 50 languages. FIFA is powered by football FIFA has always been powered by football. Now, for the first time, that power is being harnessed to bring new features to FIFA. Showcasing the power and performance of PC architecture, FIFA will feature a brand new build and release method for the first time. FIFA is working with its manufacturers to bring high-end FIFA titles to all platforms, including consoles and notebooks. The all-new season and new modes The season will see global tournaments burst onto the scene with new features and gameplay systems – the year’s features will be unveiled in FIFA 19. Teams will bring an added layer of realism with the addition of a new Engine Vision System. This allows players to paint
