Q: Can the application I am designing not be approved because I have an APK file rather than a DMG file? If I'm designing an app that uses a certificate for the payment gateway, will I have an issue with Google Play for not being able to release it? Just to clarify, I am making an app that has the functionality of a game. The app does not have a login and the user will be able to download all sorts of stuff free of charge. This means it is a free app. The app itself does not collect any personal information. The reason I chose the APK method is because I wanted to make a game that has some advertisements with it that can be easily removed and replaced with my own. A: You don't need the Apple Developer account to submit the app to Google Play. Simply go to: and just fill in the required information and submit. 987 A.2d 489 (2010) Denise M. ROBERTS and Alan R.
