VeloBar is an easy-to-use Total Control Windows cursor-guiding system. VeloBar creates a "bar" on the screen, effectively moving your cursor or point to a fixed point at the edge of the bar. Even though your computer mouse is moved by the mouse buttons on your mouse, you are still able to control the cursor with your mouse pointer, and simply position the mouse pointer where you want it to go. This means that you can have the most precise mouse control in the world, but still control your mouse with your hand without making any movement of your mouse body. You can even type a few keystrokes while the mouse is moved to another "target". This means that you do not have to hold down the keys on your keyboard. Why would you want this? Because you want the control and the precision of a PC mouse without the physical movement involved. How does it work? VeloBar is based on your mouse hardware and software compatibility. Essentially, it is a specially designed software add-on for your mouse that allows you to control the mouse pointer with your mouse body. It works with all standard mice and compatible high precision mice. Using the VeloBar Windows software, you are able to set your mouse pointer to be exactly where you want it to be; anywhere on the screen. You can change the cursor to the hand cursor to make you the indicator of your mouse movement, or you can change the mouse pointer to the arrow pointer or any other indicator that you prefer. You can keep the mouse pointer at the edge of the bar as the mouse moves, or you can move it away from
