Q: Play Framework 2.1.x and Json.at with Play annotations not playing together I'm having a problem with something that I thought was simple with the Play Framework and the json-annotations play framework has to offer.

The following are some snippets of my code. I have a Class/Data model called "Foo" that has the following definition package model; import com.fasterxml.jackson.annotation.JsonProperty; import play.data.Validation; import java.util.ArrayList; import java.util.List; public class Foo { @JsonProperty(access = Json.Required) public String bar; @JsonProperty(access = Json.Required) public List list = new ArrayList(); public Foo(@JsonProperty(access = Json.Required) String bar,

`@JsonProperty(access = Json.Required)`
`List list) { this.bar = bar; this.list = list; }`
`}` And my JSON output is defined as such. The JSON is rendered fine, and I have a "bar" element. However, the "list" element is not being filled in and I get the error: missing property 'list' (from type `com.foo.Foo`) Why is the annotation `@JsonProperty` not applying to `af5dca3d97`

What's New In?

Markup Assist is a new feature that provides a visualization of your markup content to aid in visual edits, and enables you to compare two different versions of a markup. (video: 1:21 min.) The original AutoCAD 14.0 was the first app to do this – drawing over a printed image and seeing the changes update in real time. But with the introduction of AutoCAD 2019, all applications can do this today. (video: 1:22 min.) The Add Table button on the Table tab can now display all the header and data rows of a table. You can then use this new display to see and edit the data of a table at the same time, similar to the display of a data field. (video: 1:09 min.) Add Table. Better Printing: Print directly from AutoCAD without requiring the aid of a third party printer driver. Choose any printer on your Windows PC and immediately print your drawings in a highly optimized PDF format. (video: 1:18 min.) Autodesk announced two new Printing products for AutoCAD as part of their annual Software Day. At the Autodesk Edge Event in San Francisco, Dr. Peter Suszynski, Vice President, Autodesk

Corp. and Shane Henke, Product Manager, AutoCAD, took the stage to demonstrate how AutoCAD 2023 will let you quickly and easily print, directly from the application, to a commercial printer. Today's announcement means that we are immediately introducing two new integrated printing products to Autodesk software for Windows, Mac, and Linux.
