it is possible that a hacker or cyber-criminal may have modified the dongle after purchasing it. to know whether your dongle is a genuine one, you must check the serial number or the dongle id. you can always check the site manual. in addition, if your dongle has a broken or broken key, you must not panic. if you make a backup, you can put your dongle in any computer. you can easily replace the key using the original key, and your program will work normally. i will be waiting for your e-mail. a dongle or security key helps protect your data when you are not present. for example, if you have a copy that has a simple password or a pin code, you can protect your information, such as passwords, accounts, and your system from theft or unauthorized access. you can use a dongle to save your important data, as well as the dongle to save important data in the event of a system malfunction or hardware failure, or to make backups, etc. note that the copy should be done by using the security dongle. if the copy is not done correctly, it may damage the dongle or the usb device may not work at all. if you have a parallel port dongle, you can use this method, but it should be used with caution, because it is not a method to share the port with other people, rather, it is a virtualization of the port. therefore, if you use this method, you can only use that dongle, and nobody else can use it, if you want to download the dongle, you need to register this site. this is an excellent site, because it is used by many experts, and they have good prices. you can also register in their forum and in the section “how to download”. 5ec8ef588b
